

The Mirror

William Osborne

Stage Directions

Set. Downstage left a simple, small wooden table and a chair. Downstage right a simple mirror as illustrated in the drawing. Upstage center, a wooden box with a lid on hinges. The lid opens stage right. A mask (as described below under the name "Daphne") is hanging from a hook at the top center of the side of the box facing the public.) To the stage right side of the table is a trombone stand (or a stand for whatever instrument is used.) These furnishings should be simple and have a unity of style and appearance. The positioning of the items should form an isosceles triangle whose sides are about four or five meters long.

Props. On the table is a matryoshka doll (also called a nesting doll) with ten sizes, a clear glass pitcher of water, a glass, and a small notebook with a pencil. A red negligee is hanging on the mirror. Inside the box is an apron with four pockets that contain a baby bottle, a baby's shoes with the laces tied together, a baby's rattle, and a little doll that squeaks when squeezed. The box also contains a bottle of pills; a disassembled trombone; a long beige dress (nice but not too fancy, see) that is worn by pulling it over the head; a whimsical concert jacket (e.g. black with red lapels).

Costume. Miriam is wearing a beige slip and a beige housecoat. She and her clothing have a bedraggled look of desperation, meaninglessness and boredom. The slip, housecoat and dress (see drawing) all have a unity of style and light beige color Masks. The box also contains three plaster or paper papier maché masks created with a unified style. The performer enters with a fourth mask.

Mary. A young, naive girl with a blond pigtail. The mask is held in front of one's face by the pigtail and held stable by placing a finger on or in its mouth.

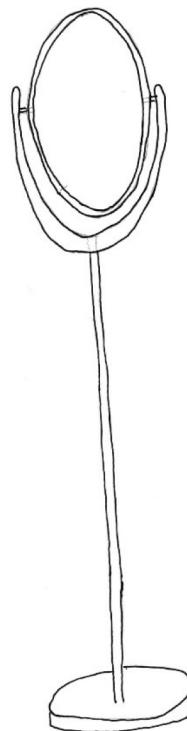

Myrtle. A puffy, round depressed face of an obese, middle-aged woman, colorless, mostly white and gray. Over this mask is a latex mask of the same person, flesh colored with heavy make-up, red lips, eye shadow, rouge, and short frayed, artificial looking red hair. The first mask is held on the performers face by a small elastic headband. The second fits firmly over the first mask and is suddenly removed revealing the mask beneath. Both masks convey a sense of desperation.

Morticia. A haughty, elegant, patrician looking mask with the lips somewhat puckered as if drawing on a cigarette or cigarette holder. The mask is held in front of the face by a handle on the performer's left side.

Daphne. A woman with the twiggy branches of a tree (about 12 to 16 inches long) forming her hair. The mask should have a ritualistic, majestic and somewhat terrifying appearance.

Light. The stage is lit in three general regions. Stage right illuminates the table and area around it, stage left lights the mirror and its general area, while a third lamp fills the center stage area. There should be adequate cross-over between the light of all three regions. The middle light also illuminates Miriam completely when she stands at the box. The light should descend at about a 70-degree angle and if possible leave a more or less triangular shape on the stage floor. The performer should be able to vary the appearance of the masks by raising her face to the light or by dipping her head and shadowing them. An additional spot adds intensity to the downstage center area. As the performer moves from the box to down stage center she moves to brighter light with a gentle continuous cross-over. A tight spot is focused to illuminate the “Daphne” mask when hanging on the front of the box. And a final spot, coming somewhat from the side, illuminates Miriam when she sits profile on the box. As Miriam moves about the stage, the general spots are brightened or dimmed to highlight the area she occupies.

The rehearsal numbers in the score indicates the tracks on the rehearsal CD. If the audio file is not on a CD, the timings by each rehearsal number can be used.

Vb indicates a very wide, varied, expressive slide vibrato. Notes with x heads or white diamonds are notes played through the F-horn with the tuning slide removed. Roman numerals are slide positions for a Conn 88-H. They will vary for other horns.

Part II: The Mirror

(For computer controlled digital piano and instrumental performance artist.)

William Osborne

As the music begins, Miriam enters from stage left and moves slowly to the center stage spot. She is holding Daphne's mask in front of her with both hands, arms extended in front of her. She turns to the audience and puts on the mask, pausing briefly, arms extended slightly outward from her sides, palms forward. (The mask does not have a headband; it balances on her head when slightly tilted back.)

Allegro, frenetic

She slowly and evenly raises her arms over her head then lowers them to the mask's cheeks below the eyes, fingers extended and spread. Her fingers slide down her face to a prayer position under her chin. She raises her arms above her head together with looking up at the same angle to a position of supplication.

She slowly and evenly lowers her arms, tilts her head forward, and lets the mask fall into her hands. She raises her real face to the audience for an instant.

then quickly turns and goes to the box, hangs Daphne's mask on a hook on the side facing the audience, rummages in the box and finds Mary's mask.

With a quick gesture she puts the mask on at the beginning of the three chord figure, holding it in front of her face by its piggy-tail.

She coyly goes to front center stage on her tip toes while brushing back the mask's hair with her fingers, once on each side, extending her arm completely with each brush.

She puts her finger to her mouth, rubs her eye with her fist, brushes away a tear on her cheek with her finger tips, puts her finger back in her mouth, and dips her head up and down coyly, using the light to effect. (Use extensions for all of these gestures.)

Suddenly calmer, slower

She puts the mask on (including its latex cover) holding it on each side with extended fingers, and spins around to face the audience on the three chord figure before the double bar.

She slowly sways side to side.

At the low note at the end of the phrase, she suddenly removes the latex cover mask, holding it with her fully extended arm pointing upward at a 45 to 60 degree angle. She looks at public for a moment through the under-layer mask, then moves her head slightly from side to side letting the light play on it.

A musical score for piano, featuring two staves. The top staff uses a treble clef and a 16th-note time signature, with a dynamic of 8va. The bottom staff uses a bass clef and a 16th-note time signature. The score consists of five measures. Measure 81 starts with a series of eighth-note chords. Measure 82 begins with a single eighth note followed by a sixteenth-note rest. Measure 83 features a eighth-note chord. Measure 84 contains a single eighth note. Measure 15 concludes with a eighth-note chord.

assumes a seductive pose standing profile to the public, and again glamorously removes and returns the imaginary cigarette to and from her mouth.

moves downstage center facing the audience and assumes a similar pose on the last beat of the first phrase.

Musical score for piano, page 16, measures 84-85. The score consists of two staves. The top staff is in treble clef, 15 time, and the bottom staff is in bass clef, 16 time. Measure 84 starts with a fermata over the treble staff. Measure 85 begins with a forte dynamic in the bass staff. Measures 84-85 are connected by a long horizontal brace. The score concludes with a repeat sign and a double bar line.

She extends her arm and moves her index finger in a gesture saying "come here," coordinating it with a seductive roll of her shoulder.

Musical score for piano, page 87, measures 9-16. The score consists of two staves. The top staff is in treble clef and the bottom staff is in bass clef. Both staves are in common time (indicated by '9' over '16'). The key signature changes frequently, indicated by various sharps and flats. Measure 9 starts with a sharp, followed by a flat, then a sharp, then a sharp, then a flat, then a sharp, then a sharp, then a sharp, then a sharp. Measures 10-12 show a complex sequence of sharps and flats. Measure 13 starts with a sharp, followed by a flat, then a sharp, then a sharp. Measures 14-16 show another sequence of sharps and flats. Measure 17 ends with a sharp. Measure 18 begins with a sharp, followed by a sharp, then a sharp.

She snaps off the mask (on the three chords,) crossing her forearms at her breast.

Musical score for piano showing measures 90-96. The score consists of two staves: treble and bass. Measure 90 starts with a dynamic of $\left(8^{\text{va}}\right)$. Measures 91-92 show a melodic line in the treble staff with various accidentals. Measure 93 begins with a dynamic of 8^{va} . Measures 94-95 continue the melodic line. Measure 96 concludes with a dynamic of subito forte. Measure numbers 12 and 16 are indicated above the staff. Measure 96 ends with a dynamic of 9_{16} .

She holds for an instant and flows back to the box.

Still at the box, using fully extended gestures she puts on Annie's mask, puts its chin in her hand, dips her head coyly, and repeats the startled gesture, then returns the mask to the box. She holds Myrtle's latex mask in the direction of the audience and makes it mouth work like a hand puppet. She protrudes her finger from its mouth and wiggles it like a tongue.

As she takes Morticia from the box, the dolls on the table distract her attention. She returns the mask to the box.

She goes to the table and seats herself.

Musical score for piano, page 101-105. The score consists of two systems of music. The top system (measures 101-104) starts with a treble clef, common time (4:44), and a key signature of one flat. It features a dynamic of 8^{va} . Measure 101 has a bass note and a treble note. Measures 102-104 show a treble line with eighth-note patterns. Measure 104 ends with a bass note and a dynamic of 8^{vb} . Measure 105 begins with a bass clef, common time (4:44), and a key signature of one sharp. It features a dynamic of 8^{va} . The bass line continues with eighth-note patterns. Measure 106 concludes the page.

Musical score for piano, page 12, measures 275-276. The score consists of two staves. The top staff is in treble clef, 12/16 time, and the bottom staff is in bass clef, 12/16 time. Both staves begin with a key signature of one sharp (F#). The music features eighth-note patterns with various accidentals (sharps and flats) and rests. Measure 275 ends with a fermata over the first note of the next measure. Measure 276 begins with a dynamic instruction '8vb'.

She faces the audience and held out in front of her twirls 360 degrees clockwise with the music.

Musical score for piano, page 10, measures 16-17. The score consists of two staves. The top staff is in 9/16 time and the bottom staff is in 9/16 time. Both staves begin with a forte dynamic. The music features complex rhythmic patterns with sixteenth-note figures and rests. Measure 17 concludes with a dynamic marking of 8^{vb} .

Then the same counter clockwise.

Musical score for piano, page 10, measures 277-280. The score consists of two staves: treble and bass. Measure 277 starts with a dotted half note followed by a sixteenth-note pattern. Measure 278 begins with a sixteenth-note pattern. Measure 279 starts with a sixteenth-note pattern. Measure 280 starts with a sixteenth-note pattern. The key signature changes from B major (two sharps) to A major (one sharp) at the beginning of measure 278. Measure 280 ends with a fermata over the last note.

A musical score for piano, showing two staves. The left staff is for the bass (C-clef) and the right staff is for the treble (G-clef). Measure 280 starts with a bass note followed by a fermata. Measure 281 begins with a bass note, followed by a treble note with a sharp sign, then a bass note with a sharp sign, and a treble note with a sharp sign. The music continues with a series of eighth-note chords in both treble and bass staves, primarily consisting of notes with sharp signs.

Musical score for orchestra and piano, page 10, measures 280-281. The score consists of two systems of music. The top system is for the orchestra, featuring multiple staves with various instruments. The bottom system is for the piano, with two staves: the left for the bass and the right for the treble. Measure 280 begins with a forte dynamic in the orchestra, followed by a series of eighth-note chords. The piano part features sustained notes in the bass staff and eighth-note patterns in the treble staff. Measure 281 continues the rhythmic pattern, with the orchestra maintaining its eighth-note chords and the piano providing harmonic support. The score is written in common time, with key signatures and accidentals indicating the musical mode.

During the chords, she slowly moves the glass to her lips. The pitcher is still in her right hand held at about neck level. On the last chord she pours the water remaining in the pitcher over her head. Pause. The playback is paused.

During the pause, she slowly sets the glass and pitcher on the table. She stands, takes the jacket and apron off the trombone, drops them on the floor, returns to the box with the instrument and sits profile on its stage right side. *The light fades to only a spot on Daphne's mask and a spot on Miriam (coming somewhat from the side she is facing.)
